

"COLOSSAL" SAYS THEATER MAGNATE

Overwhelmed at Tremendous Reception Accorded Him and His Party Thursday.

BY MARCUS LOEW.

"When several reporters asked me what I thought of the reception shortly after my arrival in Memphis Thursday, to be perfectly frank, I was too overwhelmed to express myself. Words failed me and I begged time and the opportunity to put it down in writing, so that I would not forget during a busy talk to bring out the various phases that struck me the most forcibly. To put it in one word, the reception accorded the stars and myself was 'colossal'."

"The minute I heard the bomb bursting as we approached Memphis, I felt that something unusual was to be expected, but when I found fully 10,000 Memphians and movie fans awaiting our arrival at the station, I was really dumbfounded, and despite that terrific number we experienced no difficulty in reaching the street and the waiting reception committees."

"It is only natural that in such a rush we could not meet all who had so generously come to meet us, and welcome this opportunity to express not only my gratitude but that of each of the stars to the Shrine of the Al Chymia temple, the Rotarian, Kiwanis, Lions' club, the Nineteenth Century club, all of whom made the trip one of immense joy."

"I have also to offer my sincere thanks to Mayor Paine and the various city executives who welcomed us so generously at the executive mansion, and the thousands of movie fans and theatergoers who not only met us, but crowded the line of march through the city."

"It is now befitting for me to also thank the host of movie stars who accompanied me to this city, as their time is quite valuable, and much important and unfinished work is awaiting them on their return to their studios."

"Miss Gail Patrick, left candidate Harding's tour to make the Memphis trip; Gladys Leslie interrupted one of the largest productions she ever made; Montagu Love dropped his line work for the time being in the Norma Talmadge production, while Martha Mansfield, Dolores Costello, Peggy Elinor, Ruth Hargrave, Vera Shapiro, Anne Luther, Lillian Walker, Herbert Rawlinson, Agnes Cullen, Mildred Redmond, Bert Lytell, were all forced to gain special permission to leave their work."

"I do not recall one single event in my experience where so many celebrities were gathered together at one time, neither do I ever recall such a tremendous reception as Memphians so heartily gave us."

"I have tried to cover it as I felt it, and when I write or say 'Memphians, you have opened the eyes of an open heart, I want you to feel that it is sincere.'"

"Dancing tonight except Sunday, 8:30 to 11:30, at the Merry Garden, Bellevue and Linden, beginning Monday, Oct. 11."

Failing to gain admittance at the gate, the police scaled the high wall surrounding the house. They dug up human bones and women's clothing in the "castle" grounds. Moving Pictures Strand.

A quartet of humor is added to the picture, "In Old Kentucky," featuring Anita Stewart, now showing at the Strand theater, by an elderly colored couple spooning on the lawn. It is the night of the great ball in celebration of the winning of the Kentucky handicap. Their service in the house over the old couple slip out while the white folks are dancing, for their own amusement.

The couple who play the part are typical Southern darlings and carry out their little side play with the naturalness and simplicity of real life.

Majestic.

In "The Great Accident," now at the Majestic, the beloved Tom Moore portrays the role of a carefree son of a politician, who aspires to the office of mayor of the town of Hardiston. By a series of amusing incidents the opposing political faction manages to twist the public sentiment into voting Wint Chase into the office, his father had fought for in a long political campaign. The success of the conspirators, and the manner in which the young mayor tackled the enormous job before him, will amuse and thrill you, when you see the picture.

Princess.

Not a hero by any Sunday school standards is the man Frank Mayo has to portray in "Kitchen Post," the current film attraction at the Princess theater. He is just a man—a gentleman—but with just a touch of unscrupulousness and an overwhelming sense of Southern gallantry. Duelist, adventurer, gambler and mad, this young star in the stirring story by H. M. Shumate.
